There was preaching at Tumbling Saturday afternoon and also Sunday at 11 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Hagar. The singing class met Sunday afternoon and sang a few songs.

Some few are selling potatoes; but the price is not altogether satisfactory. We hope to get more after the holidays are over, as there seems to be a congestion of the market just now.

The subscribers to the rural telephone have just begun work overhauling the lines from Bell's store to Gleason. What has been done will fix them so as to get good service this winter. We must finish the job on the Gleason route at once before bad weather sets in.

Homer Laster says not to forget to give praise to the road hands that have done some good work on filling holes, etc. This work was badly needed. Still a little more work is needed on the road; a little system of dragging would help.

Buford Dinning is having a porch built to his dwelling, which adds to the looks very much.

Quite a number of the members of Thompson creek Missionary Baptist church, and others of this community, feeling greatly appreciative of this church's recently elected pastor, Elder J. R. Paschall, led by the spirit to give this young pastor an ideal pounding, convened at his residence on Saturday night and carried out their previously planned program. As the two heavily loaded wagons, buggies and automobiles were nearing the preacher's house, that prince of good christians and song leader, Oscar W. Beard, struck the key note to that soul-lifting song, "Tis the Old-Time Religion," in which the men, women, boys and girls joined and fairly made the melodies of this good old song ring out on the zepthers of the beautiful moon light air. This procedure was a complete surprise to the pastor and his family and when the carrier vehicles were unloaded and articles placed in the house there was found potatoes, turnips, corn, meal, flour, molasses, canned fruit, rolled oats, salmon, butter, pickles and one-half dozen full grown chickens. After singing some appropriate songs, accompanied by Miss Louise Paschall's piano melodies, prayers and talks of appreciation by the preacher and others present, the audience departed for their respective homes.
